Environmental Heroes

Directions: Imagine that you are a superhero with ONE special power. What is your superhero name? What is your special power?

We have just learned about the horrible things that are happening to Latin America's environment—oil pollution in Venezuela, deforestation of the Amazon Rainforest in Brazil, and air pollution in Mexico City.

It is your mission to use your special superhero power to solve ONE of these environmental problems. Use your power for good... before it's too late!

How are you going to use your power to solve the problem? The world wants to know! Please write your superhero solution on the lines below.
